I attended a Mustang show in Jacksonville this spring and was introduced to a new product for detailing cars, Ducora Top Coat. Ducora was one of the show sponsors and had a table set up with the product. Upon seeing it for the first time, my thoughts were "just another snake oil" product and I actually passed it by. During the day I was able to see a couple cars on display that had been detailed with Top Coat and they looked very nice. I decided to take a chance and buy a 16 oz. bottle and I am glad I did. The stuff works on paint, plastics, glass and even the matte black decals I have on my Roush 428R ( they turn white if wax gets on them ). It is as easy to use as they claim and it SHINES!

I am sold on it. Please send me a gallon..... that should last me a year (that's using it on 2 cars, a truck and 2 motorcycles). It doesn't take much and I still have a bit left in the 16 oz. spray bottle I got in the spring (here it is September). The gallon size is a great value.

All I can say is "Try it, you'll like it!" Great product! I am sure glad I attended that Mustang show this spring! I came home with a trophy and Top Coat (the biggest prize of the day)!
